SINGAPORE Exchange's Bull Charge, an annual charity run that turns 10 this year, has found support from six companies as Diamond Bull sponsors.

The six, which donated $100,000 each, are: Binjai

Tree, Cisco Systems, HCL, Noble Group, Thai Beverage and United Overseas Bank (UOB).

President Tony Tan will flag off the event this Friday. More than 8,000 runners are expected to run round the Central Business District, with some $2.8 million raised so far.

HCL Technologies Ltd, which presented its cheque to SGX CEO Magnus Bocker on Monday, said: "HCL is proud to be one of the key partners to the only corporate charity run that unites the financial industry and all the SGX-listed companies for a noble cause."

The money raised through this year's event will go to four charities: Asian Women's Welfare Association, Autism Association, Fei Yue Community Services and Shared Services for Charities.

UOB chose to host some primary school children receiving support from Fei Yue Community Services in a visit to the zoo yesterday.

Bill Chua, managing director and group head of Global Financial Institutions Group, UOB, said: "The trip to the zoo was a rewarding way for UOB to kick-start the school holidays with the children."
