SGX Bull Charge raises S$2.6m for four charities this year

Singapore

THE Singapore Exchange (SGX) Bull Charge 2014 charity run has raised S$2.6 million for four charities this year: the Asian Women's Welfare Association (AWWA), Autism Association of Singapore, Fei Yue Community Services, and Shared Services for Charities.

A total of 6,000 runners – including SGX chief executive officer Magnus Bocker (in green shorts) – were flagged off by guest-of-honour Lawrence Wong, Minister for Culture, Community and Youth and Second Minister for Communications and Information, at the The Float@Marina Bay for the 11th edition of the annual run on Friday.

Since the SGX Bull Charge first started in 2004, it has raised almost S$24 million for over 50 different charities.
